Workshop #2: Unplugging Your Makerspace

June 19-20, 2019 (must attend both days)

Open to teachers K-8

8:30-3:30

(New to WOW!)

Interested in building a makerspace for your students, but struggling to find money in the budget? 3D Printers and laser cutters are great but the maker movement is about so much more than the tech! In Unplugging Your Makerspace we will discuss the principles at the core of the maker movement and explore ways you can use low-cost supplies and items you likely already own to create your own makerspace that will excite your students. Participants will leave with a SOITA mini maker kit which includes low-cost materials and samples.

Where: SOITA - 1205 E. Fifth Street, Dayton, OH 45402

Fee: Free!

With an option to purchase 1 semester hour from The University of Dayton
